There has been such a buzz, as first year students begin at uni and upper years return. There really are a lot of students on campus! Teaching spaces are full. The Kingsford Light Rail heaves as students step out. It definitely feels that finally the COVID days are over. The 2 or 3 years after COVID, students stood awkwardly apart, on their phones, waiting to move into a tutorial room. Now, we are all more relaxed about being in person, and conversations come more easily.

And everywhere people can see Campus Bible Study. In O-week, there were the CBS Stall and free BBQs. Now that uni has begun, gospel conversations are happening; CBS t-shirts and Welcome signs abound.

Crowds of students have signed up for Bible Studies, for Core Training and TBT. (TBT stands for The Bible Talks, and is the weekly public teaching of the Bible that happens in the form of a lecture, throughout the week).

Please give thanks and praise to the Lord for the thousands of students at UNSW, and tens of thousands of students on campuses around Australia. Give thanks to the Lord for opportunities to tell out the grace of God, shown in Jesus Christ our Saviour.

Pray for small Bible groups. I am keen to be leading a group of law women. I have invited some of these students to prepare and lead a Bible study with me. For some, this will be their first time leading a Bible study. It is so rich, and so much fun, to prepare a Bible study with a second person. This is also training so that students can, in the future, lead Bible studies in churches, youth group, at the work place.

Matthew's Gospel, which we are reading, is overflowing with crowds who flocked from everywhere to see Jesus: to hear his teaching, to be healed of disease, to be liberated from demons. Amazing! Jesus was awesome. Pray that crowds of uni students will turn to serve the awesome, almighty Jesus.
